ABSTRACT: FASB Statement 109, Accounting for Income Taxes, adopts an asset and liability approach for recognizing deferred income taxes. The liability method calculates the deferred tax liability or asset for the future tax effects of past events that are reflected in a...

...for purchase business combinations, rather than the net-of-tax approach. Each identified asset and liability is assigned its respective fair value excluding the effects of taxes. The 4 steps of the calculation of the deferred tax liability or asset under SFAS 109 are: 1. Identify the temporary differences between the book and tax bases of assets and liabilities, and segregate those whose reversals will generate future taxable income from those that will generate...
...the tax rate applicable to the reversal of identified temporary differences. 3. Determine the gross deferred tax liability for the taxable temporary differences and the gross deferred tax assets for the deductible temporary differences and loss carryforwards. 4. Record a valuation allowance for gross deferred tax assets.
